

International Truck First OEM To Make Collision Mitigation Standard

Launches new LT™ Series Class 8 Tractor This Fall as Part of DriverFirst™ Initiative Focusing on Responding to Driver Needs

LISLE, Ill., Sept. 22, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- International Truck has announced that the soon-to-be-launched LT™ Series on-highway Class 8 tractor will come standard with an advanced driver assistance safety system that includes a powerful combination of collision mitigation and full stability technologies. This standard technology offering on the new LT Series signifies assured driver safety, ultimately reducing collision repair costs and resulting in uptime efficiencies for heavy-duty fleets.

"Uptime is our commitment to build the best trucks on the road that drivers want to drive," said Bill Kozek, president, Trucks and Parts, Navistar. "As part of our DriverFirst philosophy, driver safety is paramount when operating a truck and we're proud to lead the way by integrating a standard solution on the new LT Series, which demonstrates our commitment to drivers, their safety, and their livelihood."

The standard solution featured on the new International® LT Series, Bendix® Wingman® Advanced™, gives drivers following distance and stationary object alerts and brings together adaptive cruise control with collision mitigation braking technology and the full-stability technology – Bendix ESP® – providing fleets with a system that can help drivers avoid collisions, roll-overs, and loss-of-control situations. In addition, the system can provide data, to help keep fleet owners and operators in the know about what's happening out on the road. Wingman Advanced, with millions of on-road miles, radar-based collision mitigation technology has been helping fleets mitigate rear-end collisions since 2011.

"We continue to integrate industry-leading safety technologies on our vehicles and we're pleased to be the first OEM to make this level of driver assistance system standard on our newest on-highway tractor," Kozek added. "The LT Series demonstrates our commitment to enhance driver satisfaction, comfort and safety."
