International Appoints Sebastian Leger as Senior Vice President and Chief Procurement Officer

Lisle, Illinois — March 10, 2026 — International announced that Sebastian Leger has been appointed senior vice president and chief procurement officer, effective April 1, 2026.

About International's procurement organization

In this role, Leger will lead the company's global Procurement organization and report directly to Mathias Carlbaum, President and CEO. Leger will be responsible for procurement strategy and operations, supplier partnerships and alignment with TRATON Group.

This appointment supports International's continued focus on delivering meaningful solutions to their customers.

"Sebastian's extensive procurement leadership experience across the commercial vehicle industry – and his proven track record in cost optimization, supplier quality and strategic transformation – will help further strengthen International's global procurement capabilities," said Mathias Carlbaum, President and CEO. "His leadership comes at a crucial time as we optimize our delivery of quality solutions to our customers."

About International's newly appointed SVP and chief procurement officer

Sebastian Leger brings more than 20 years of experience in automotive procurement and supply management. Before joining International, he:

- Served as senior vice president (SVP), Strategy and Procurement Excellence at MAN Truck & Bus SE, where he led strategic procurement initiatives and group-wide excellence programs.
- Held successive senior leadership roles at MAN Truck & Bus, including SVP Purchasing Cabin, Electronics and Product Cost Optimization, SVP

Purchasing Bus, and VP roles overseeing major purchasing categories.
- Started his procurement leadership career at Daimler AG, where he served as team lead for Interior Purchasing.

“I am honored to join International and contribute to the company’s transformation,” shared Leger. “I look forward to working closely with our teams and suppliers across the globe to continue building a high performing, collaborative procurement organization that drives value for our customers.”

Leger holds a bachelor’s degree in Industrial Engineering from Berufsakademie Stuttgart Horb in Germany.
