RWC Group Takes Over as the Authorized IC Bus Dealer for the State of Washington

After the recent acquisition of the state's area of responsibility, RWC Group is now the new authorized dealer for IC Bus in Washington.

Lisle, Illinois – June 10, 2019 – After the recent acquisition of the state's area of responsibility, RWC Group is now the new authorized dealer for IC Bus in Washington. The move further strengthens RWC's position in Washington, adding to its existing four locations throughout the state.

"The entire RWC Group staff is dedicated to providing the very best customer service experience at all of our locations, and this move helps us better serve bus customers in Washington state," said Robert W Cunningham, president, RWC Group. "I look forward to serving the state in an increased capacity and providing them consistent support and top-notch service before, during and after the sale."

With locations in Alaska, Washington, California and Arizona, RWC Group is a well-known International® Truck and IC Bus® dealer along the west coast. With this move, the group is strengthening their position within the school bus industry.

"The RWC Group is a premier dealer for the IC Bus brand and has consistently demonstrated our commitment to being a trusted partner for our customers and providing the safest and most reliable transportation for children," said Trish Reed, general manager, IC Bus. "IC Bus is pleased to have RWC expand their support into Washington state."

IC Bus is the nation’s largest integrated manufacturer of school buses and a global leader in passenger protection, chassis design, engines and ergonomics. With an emphasis on safety, last year IC Bus led the industry in becoming the first original equipment manufacturer to offer electronic stability control and collision mitigation as standard features on school buses.

All IC Bus vehicles are sold, serviced and supported through a renowned dealer network that offers an integrated customer experience encompassing parts, training and service.
